LUXURIOUS ACCOMMODATION AT MANDARIN ORIENTAL, BODRUM

Built into a hillside at “Cennet Koyu” (Paradise Bay), Mandarin Oriental, Bodrum boasts 127 guest rooms each with its own sun-deck, terrace or balcony, many with private gardens and infinity-edged pools. The resort comprises 59 luxurious rooms, 25 suites, 23 lifestyle apartments, 14 residential apartments, 6 villas, each among the largest in the Bodrum Peninsula.

International designer Antonio Citterio has created all the rooms in an elegant, contemporary style, taking full advantage of the resort’s outstanding vistas and providing the absolute feeling of being at one with nature. Design elements have been influenced by the Group’s oriental heritage as well as local cultural ancestry, allied to Mandarin Oriental’s renowned attention to detail. Brushed-surfaced furnishings in teak and dark wood are detailed with natural stone from a local quarry – natural colours in neutral tones – while the stone walls have a grooved texture finish. Bespoke headboards come in hand-woven leather with discreet built-in nightlights; soft furnishings are in a soothing beige colour palette with the accent on luxury and sleek design. Bathrooms overlooking the sea or garden have deep-soaking tubs, twin vanity units with handmade porcelain bowls in an oriental turquoise glaze and powerful walk-in steam showers. Floor-to-ceiling windows along with a large skylight, plants or an inner courtyard, lend a garden atmosphere to the rooms while outdoor terraces – some with private plunge pools or balconies – marry an indoor and outdoor feel. The overall character of the interiors instils a comfortable resort mood with an understated elegance that reflects warmth and luxury.

Luxurious appointments are standard in all guest rooms, from statement pieces of furniture accentuating noble materials in neutral tones, to sumptuous Turkish rugs. Attention to detail is paramount: handy valet closets allow guests to use the laundry and delivery services without
