

Zero Suite: a unique room with transparent walls at Paradiso Ibiza Art Hotel

- Located in the hotel lobby, the room will host artists during weekend micro-residencies when they will make creations under the public eye
- Zero Suite Residencies is part of the hotel's Art Paradiso art and culture programme, a new project devised by Concept Hotel Group

This coming 7 June PARADISO IBIZA ART HOTEL will open in Ibiza as a totally unique option to stay in the island surrounded by contemporary art. Inspired by the MiMo (Miami Modern) aesthetic, this new hotel invites guests to enjoy the island in a completely different way through exciting art and culture projects.

At the core of this new project is ZERO SUITE, a room located in the hotel lobby. This particular room has glass walls and any guest can stay there for a night absolutely free. It is fully furnished (bed, table, chairs ...) and has its own bathroom, though, admittedly, this has opaque walls. The room can be used as a single or double and each guest can use it once a year.

During the high season for tourism on the island, ZERO SUITE will also be used for a programme of weekend art residencies. Once a month, an invited multidisciplinary artist will stay in the room and create an artwork in it. In this way, the artist will take his or her creative process out of the studio so that the hotel's guests, tourists and residents of Ibiza can witness for themselves how an artwork is created. PARADISO IBIZA ART HOTEL is launching this completely novel idea in the hotel sector which is sure to connect with a different type of tourist motivated by cultural concerns.

The ZERO SUITE RESIDENCIES project is part of the ART PARADISO contemporary art programme directed by the artist Iñaki Domingo and the filmmaker Diana Kunst, and conceived specifically for the hotel. The programme also includes Art Rooms, with artworks on exhibit in all the rooms; Art Library, specialising in contemporary art; and Art Gallery with its own programme of exhibitions.

Ibiza through art

This new hotel is part of an ongoing project to transform and enhance the island's tourist offer, programming exhibitions and activities to showcase the latest trends in art.

Concept Hotel Group is an Ibiza-based hotel chain which has introduced a new concept in accommodation over the last five years based on impeccable design by the ilmiodesign architecture and interior design studio. Paradiso Ibiza Art Hotel is the group's fifth concept hotel, joining Santos, Tropicana, Dorado and Cubanito.
