Where Everyday Becomes Extra-ordinary: the opening of Quarter Square in Old Taipa Village, Macau

An alleyway from the bustling Rua do Cunha opens up to a “largo” (Portuguese for a square and communal open space), where a quaint white house is serving coffee and style in abundance. Housed in modest two-storey village residence, Quarter Square is a lifestyle boutique and espresso bar that introduces an integrative approach in pursuing modest elegance and quiet luxury.

Founder Alberto Chan has studied and practiced Interior Design in New York City. With an ambition to fuse his design philosophy and the practice, he envisions Quarter Square being more than a retail outlet. Quarter Square not only represents a refined selection of contemporary design, but also offers a platform for design exchanges in its ground floor store and espresso bar, first floor studio and rooftop terrace.

In an environment in sync with the founder’s lifestyle and beliefs, Quarter Square is always open to people who want to seek quality in every aspect of living. Quarter Square takes pride in bringing delightful well-crafted design to your life. Coffee beans might run out here but never poise and charm.
