The place

"YNDŌ", a name with harmonious forms which, for its Japanese and melodious side has been created especially for this unique place.

Located rue Abbé de l'Epée, road established during the second half of the nineteenth century to develop the social and educational institutions of Bordeaux such as Philomathic Company or Institute of deaf and dumb; YNDŌ hotel is full of history.

This beautiful building of the XIXth with its classic and refined stone facade doesn't leave nothing to show, in appearance. However, the doors open and give access to a large porch that once traversed, leads directly to the courtyard of the place where the paved ground and creepers make us forget that just a few steps away are the the liveliest districts of the city. To park a few vehicles but also to take the air on the terrace, the courtyard also allows access to an annexe, this time in a Provencal style: warm colors and roof tiles are in the spotlight to disorient us.
