

Freedom and unity are the words that best describe the way this family interacts, and our challenge was to create a house to fit that spirit. The whole social area unfolds in a single space, large and continuous, bringing the outside into the house and extending the living room to the garden. The kitchen dilutes on the walnut wood panel walls of the living room and the island emerges as a minimal sculptural element of steel integrated in a block of black belgium marble, in perfect dialogue with the architecture
