

space between people and architecture

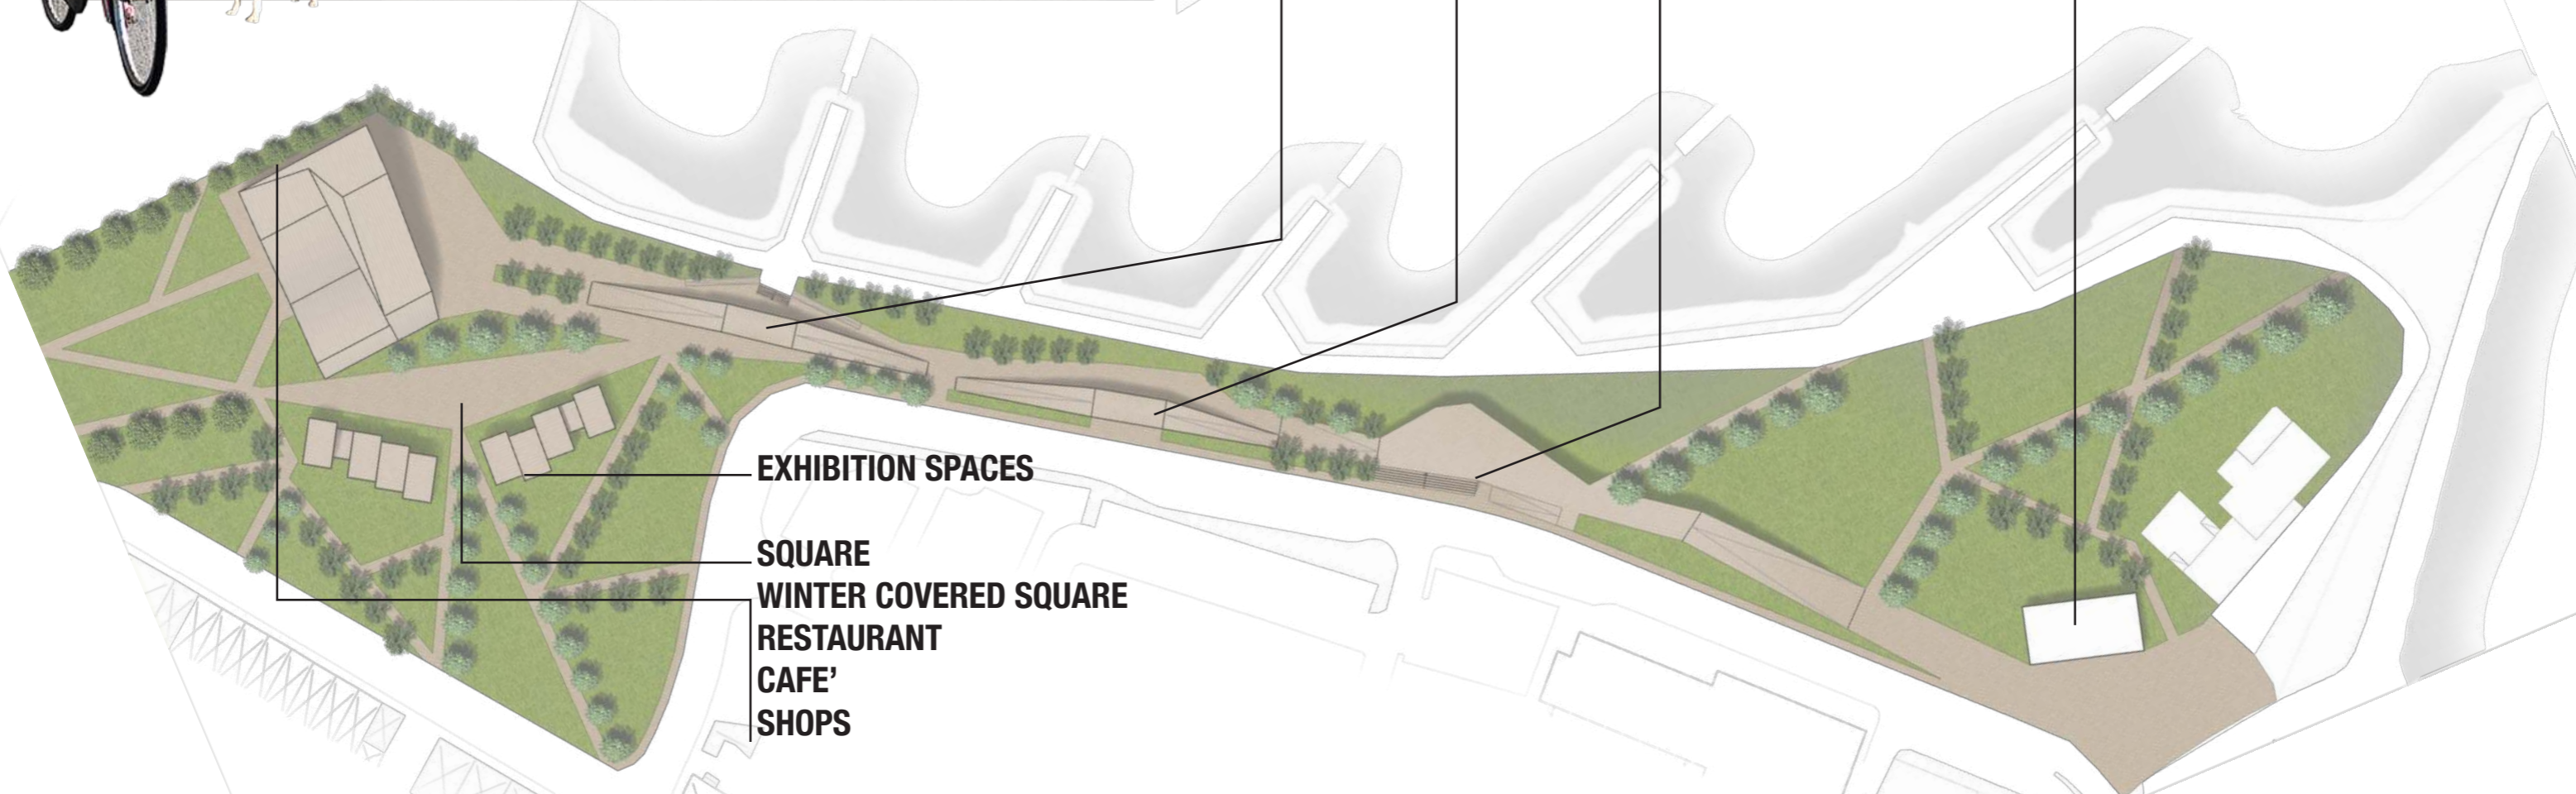

The promenade, the main axis of our project, cross the project site and link the key points. These key points are fixed by the intersection between the existing fabric of ways with the ideal axis determined by the moving back of the coast line. In corrspondence to the attractive points the promenade has some trasformations. It becomes an organic structure that contains pavillions and pedestrian ways with stop and meeting points. The square is the point of connection between the promenade and the multipurpose building. They are managed with the same wooden material.
