Tōjūrō Sakata and others Kabuki Performance/ Japanese Dance Performance

Performers : Tōjūrō Sakata, Kichizoh Wakayagi, Kikunojo Onoe, Motoi Hanayagi

Naguta Music “Shima no Senzai”

“Shima no Senzai” is the name of a female dancer who is an ancestor of a dance started in the medieval era. This dance is often performed with the costume of high class male with traditional clothes and Eboshi hat and Japanese sward. The music was made in late Meiji era, and was the succession performance for Tazaemon Mochizuki 7th (later Bokusei Mochizuki 3rd ). The music is famous as one where “kotsuzumi (the small hand drum)” is focused, and this is because the music developed that way to express the female dancer, who usually danced with a small drum. For this time, the music will be performed as a female performance, with long hair expressing the figure of the female. It is a very high-toned performance with a feeling of celebration.

Nagauta Dance “Kanjincho”

This is a Kabuki performance developed from the Nou performance “Ataka,” based Muromachi Era’s “Gikeiki” (a military epic about the life of Yoshitsune), and was first performed by Danjuro Ichikawa 7th in 1840, established by Danjuro Ichikawa 9th to be one of the 18 repertoire of Kabuki. It was not danced recently, and when it was performed in 5th Kichizo Wakayagi Family Recital as a dance performance in 2002, it was highly welcomed from the society. The story is about Yoshitsune, who escapes along with his few followers to the eastern part of Japan, after being hunted by his own brother Yoritomo. The dance expresses the emotions of Yoshitsune and his followers through their lone hegira through the Kaga region, Ataka region heading east.

A string sextet performed by members from the Lucerne Festival Orchestra

Composer: Johannes Brahms - String Sextet No. 1 in B-flat major, Op. 18

Composer: Peter Ilyich Tchaikovsky's - String Sextet in D minor "Souvenir de Florence", Op. 70

Performer: Members of the Lucerne Festival Orchestra

Raphael Christ- Violinist, Henja Semmler- Violinist, Wolfram Christ- Violist, Tanja Christ- Violist, Jens Peter Maintz- Cellist, and Giovanni Gnocchi- Cellist

---

The Lucerne Festival Orchestra features the talent of six string instrumentalists such as Wolfram Christ, a former first chair violist of the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra, and their ancestors violinist Raphael Christ and violist Tanja Christ (both are former instrumentalists of the Orchestra Mozart and the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra), Henja Semmler, a violinist of the Mahler Chamber Orchestra (MCO), Giovanni Gnocchi, a cellist who plays for both the Orchestra Mozart Mahler Chamber Orchestra (MCO) and Jens Peter Maintz, a cello soloist. All of these orchestra members are especially elite players among the Lucerne Festival Orchestra and have close ties to Claudio Abbado. These six members will perform two string pieces. First is a passionate and heavy string sextet which was composed by Johannes Brahms during his most fulfilling years as a composer (the very emotionally themed second movement of this piece is especially renowned). The second is Peter Ilyich Tchaikovsky's "Souvenir de Florence", a string sextet that vividly encompasses the melancholy of his stay in Florence as he composed this song. These two pieces will fully bring to life the phenomenal talent of these true virtuosos and these masterpieces will echo in the performance hall brilliantly like never before.

About LUCERNE FESTIVAL ARK NOVA

LUCERNE FESTIVAL ARK NOVA was initiated immediately after the great earthquake by LUCERNE FESTIVAL, the Swiss international music festival.

The word means: “ARK” as in “Noah’s Ark,” and NOVA, meaning “new.”

In the well-known great flood story of the Old Testament / Book of Genesis, it depicts Noah boarding his family and animals onto an ark in preparation of a great flood. After the floodwater receded, they all see rainbow in the sky. In a nod to this story, we named the Project “new ark” = ARK NOVA with the hope that it will become a symbol of recovery immediately after the great earthquake disaster.

ARK NOVA obviously cannot carry people and animals away and escape from disaster, but we conceived the ark to travel packed with music and various arts, from the vision of long-term rebuilding of culture and spirit.

We also recalled a key concept that Japanese folklorist Shinobu Orikuchi coined as “marebito (sacred guests).” This is the concept that “marebito” from foreign lands brought religions and festivals and revitalized society as a result. This could also be considered the principle of how the arts came into existence.

ARK NOVA seeks to travel around in the disaster regions as a “marebito” and generate activities putting the spotlight on each location as it interacts with locals. Although the project was born as a result of the great earthquake, we aim to develop a structure that can extend beyond rebuilding to create “ARS NOVA,” meaning “new arts.”

Artistic Director Michael Haefliger’s Message

The images of 11 March 2011 have left their mark on all of us. Since we at LUCERNE FESTIVAL have maintained a very close relationship to Japan for many years, I felt a strong desire to make a contribution to overcoming the consequences of the catastrophe, within the scope of what we have to offer. With the LUCERNE FESTIVAL ARK NOVA Project we hope to give the people who are living with this situation something more than everyday pleasure. Combining different arts and cultures, this project is a fascinating symbiosis of architecture, design, folkloristic and classical music as well as music education. The impressive concert hall will not only serve as a performance platform for high-class artistic projects, for which there is currently no infrastructure in the area, but should also become a place of encounter and of inspiring creativity? and thus help to develop and promote the cultural side of the region.

About LUCERNE FESTIVAL and LUCERNE FESTIVAL ORCHESTRA

In 1938, the LUCERNE FESTIVAL began with a gala concert conducted by Arturo Toscanini in front of Richard Wagner’s lakeside villa at Lucerne and has grown to a music festival of global importance over the decades. Today, an internationally top-class orchestra, conductor, and musicians gather at the mediaeval town surrounded by some of the most spectacular landscapes in Europe.

Formally named “Lucerne Festival” since 2001, three music festivals are held yearly: LUCERNE FESTIVAL at Easter in spring, LUCERNE FESTIVAL in summer, and LUCERNE FESTIVAL at the Piano in fall. At the main summer festival, an internationally top-class series of concerts focusing on a certain composer, musician, or theme are held.

The history of LUCERNE FESTIVAL ORCHESTRA began at the same time the music festival was founded. The first festival was held in 1938, with renowned soloists and chamber musicians from Europe who gathered in Lucerne and performed with Toscanini as the conductor. The Swiss Festival Orchestra was established as a permanent music festival orchestra and was active until 1993. This tradition entered a new chapter with the founding of LUCERNE FESTIVAL ORCHESTRA in 2003 by Claudio Abbado (Artistic Director of LUCERNE FESTIVAL ORCHESTRA) and Michael Haefliger (Artistic and Executive Director of LUCERNE FESTIVAL). LUCERNE FESTIVAL ORCHESTRA is comprised of prominent musicians and participates in LUCERNE FESTIVAL which is held every summer.

Concert Hall Outline

The concert hall ARK NOVA created by Arata Isozaki and Anish Kapoor is an air-inflated membrane structure, which is equipped with essential stage and sound equipment. The membrane can be folded up and the equipment can be dismantled and loaded on a truck, allowing it to be able to be transported to each site.

The interior is a single continuous space which, depending on the arrangement of equipment, is a multistage format that can accommodate various events from orchestras to chamber music, jazz, the performing arts or exhibitions. It is envisioned to seat about 500 during an orchestra performance, and is planned to have a width of 30m, length of 36m and maximum height of 18m.

Zuiganji Cedar Project

The beautiful pathway surrounded by cedar forests at Zuiganji Temple, a symbol of Matsushima, was a beloved presence to locals over the years. Sadly, many of the trees were cut down because of tsunami damage and ground sinking. LUCERNE FESTIVAL ARK NOVA conceived the idea to effectively use the wood as materials for acoustic reflectors/boards and chairs in the ARK NOVA hall in order to revive those cedars.

Zuiganji Temple has agreed with this concept, and has authorized the usage of the precious cedar wood. The production will be a collaborative effort with Forest Owner's Cooperative Association of Miyagi Chuo and Ishinomaki Laboratory which is located in Ishinomaki City, one of the regions hit hardest by the disaster.
